FISHERMAN'S MONEY MURDER MOTIVE?

Police Search in Vain for Michael Baldauff, Houseboatman,
Strangely Missing.

LAST SEEN SITTING ON TIES.

Dog's Vigil Over Spot, Finding of Hats and Pails and Ransacked Boat Indicate Foul Play.

What has become of Michael Baldauff, a fisherman and houseboat dweller, who lived near East St. Louis? Was he murdered for his money, which it was currently reported he carried with him, and was his body thrown into a passing box car, which now cannot be traced? Many believe he was murdered and a strong chain of circumstantial evidence bears out their belief, further strengthened by the fact that the entire detective force of the East St. Louis Police Department worked all day yesterday without getting the slightest trace of the missing man.

Shortly before midnight Baldauff was seen sitting on a railroad tie, near the junction of the Southern and the Mobile and Ohio tracks, just south of East St. Louis, and about a quarter of a mile from his home on the river front, W. P. Bent, a car inspector for the Southern, saw him there, and saw his two dogs with him. Bent says that dinner pails were on each side of Baldauff, who was sitting with his head in his hands. He did not say anything to him, although he recognized him as Baldauff.

Yesterday morning C. W. White, yardmaster for the Southern, noticed the two dogs watching over a hat and two dinner pails on a railroad tie near the junction of the Southern and the Mobile and Ohio tracks, just south of East St. Louis, and about a quarter of a mile from his home on the river front, W. P. Bent, a car inspector for the Southern, saw him there, and saw his two dogs with him. Bent says that dinner pails were on each side of Baldauff, who was sitting with his head in his hands. He did not say anything to him, although he recognized him as Baldauff.

The investigation disclosed that the hat, the dinner pails and the dogs belonged to Michael Baldauff, who had been seen sitting on the railroad ties at midnight. A careful examination failed to disclose any blood stains or other evidence.

The detectives went to Baldauff's houseboat, a fisherman's boat, which was moored at the junction of the Southern and the Mobile and Ohio tracks, just south of East St. Louis, and about a quarter of a mile from his home on the river front, W. P. Bent, a car inspector for the Southern, saw him there, and saw his two dogs with him. Bent says that dinner pails were on each side of Baldauff, who was sitting with his head in his hands. He did not say anything to him, although he recognized him as Baldauff.

Inquiry among the houseboat dwellers was made by the detectives, David Reich, a fisherman, a houseboat dweller, who came to his houseboat about 4 a. m. and found Baldauff's hat, his dinner pails and his dogs. He did not see Baldauff, but he saw the hat, the pails and the dogs. He did not see Baldauff, but he saw the hat, the pails and the dogs.

WOMAN'S BREAST

A lump in woman's breast is a cancer. It does not pain until almost past cure, but if neglected, it will always poison deep glands in the armpit and kill quickly. If you wait until it poisons glands in the shoulder, death is certain.

I will give $1000 if I fail to cure any cancer I treat, before it poisons the deep glands or attaches to bone. No knife or pain. No pay until cured. No X-ray or other swindle. A Pacific Island shrub or plant makes the cure—the most wonderful discovery on earth, today. 3000 cancers cured on people you can see and talk with. A tumor, lump or sore on the lip, face or anywhere, six months, is cancer. In 30 years I have cured more cancers than any other doctor living. Investigate my absolute guarantee. Be sure to write today for my 150 page book, sent free, with symptoms, addresses and testimonials of thousands cured, and write to them. We are strictly reliable, and do as we agree. Address, DR. AND MRS. CHAMLEE & CO., OFFICES, 201 & 203 N. 12TH ST., ST. LOUIS, MO.

TRAMP ENJOYED MOTOR RIDE WITH MR. CHOATE.

Merchant Who Explained the Way in an Isolated English District Was Carried to His Destination in an Automobile.

London, June 12.—Mr. Choate's love for motoring is well known, and perhaps explains his English exuberance of spirits. He is a little adventure of which he was the hero when he was journeying in Hertfordshire. The chauffeur was driving Mr. Choate was sitting beside him, and Mrs. Choate occupied a seat in the tonneau. The party lost their bearings. No signposts were visible. The only indication of life was a disreputable-looking tramp sitting by the roadside, apparently at ease, apparently oblivious to everything but his own thoughts, as is the manner of his fraternity.

"Let's ask the tramp," suggested Mr. Choate to the driver, "perhaps he'll know the way."

"Don't think so," replied the latter, "tramps in this country invariably keep to the main roads, and only know the way from one to another."

"Anyway, we'll ask him," said Mr. Choate. The car pulled up. "Can you tell me the best road to — my man?" said Mr. Choate.

"Yes," said the tramp. "I'm going that way. The tramp indicated the road and explained the turnings, just as the car was about to move, however, it being in their hands. "Nothing ask, nothing said," said Mr. Choate.

"Give a poor man a lift, sir," said the tramp. "I'll take you to the station. The tramp indicated the road and explained the turnings, just as the car was about to move, however, it being in their hands. "Nothing ask, nothing said," said Mr. Choate.

STEREOPTICON VIEWS WITH SCHOOL GIRLS' ADDRESSES.

When the address of the history of the class of 1903 of the East St. Louis Public Schools was illustrated with stereopticon views, a new feature in classroom exercises was introduced. Miss Louise Crook was the historian, and the exercises took place in the auditorium of the High School.

Twelve C. Haynes of the class of 1903 prepared the views, which showed each member at different ages from the time he entered school.

By other innovation was the presence of the graduates in the corners of the platform, which the class prophet, Miss Louise Crook, had prepared.
